Traveling to Beijing, China for the Wedding:

China entry rules can vary by nationality, so non-U.S. passport holders should check their own requirements as early as possible. U.S. travelers need a passport valid for at least 6 months beyond arrival and at least 2 blank pages.

Steps:

Check your passport:

Make sure your passport will be valid for at least 6 months after your arrival date in China and has at least 2 blank pages. If it does not, renew it before doing anything else.

Confirm whether you need a visa:

Guests traveling on a U.S. passport should plan to get a visa before the trip. China currently offers visa-free entry for citizens of certain countries for up to 30 days, including Canada and the UK, but not for U.S. passport holders
